

Free contracts health-check

Would you like a free review of your template agreements to check that they are up-to-date, legally-compliant, and meet your organisation's needs?

During the next 6 months, Anderson Law LLP, the Technology Law Practice[™] is offering a free service for universities, NHS Trusts and technology-based companies. The service comprises:

- A one-hour discussion with you in which we will:
 - Obtain from you the template agreements that you currently use
 - Learn the origin and drafting history of those agreements
 - Understand how the templates are used in individual transactions
 - Discuss your commercial priorities for transactions that use the template agreements
- We will then review each template agreement in detail
- Finally, we will produce for you a written report in which we:
 - Set out our views on the general suitability of your template agreements in light of your transactional requirements and commercial priorities
 - Make recommendations as to how each template may be improved to make it up-to-date, legally-compliant and suitable for your organisation, and identify any other templates that you may wish to use
 - Make recommendations on the process that you should follow when using these templates in individual transactions

Following delivery of our report, you have no obligation to use us further. However, we would be happy to provide further services on a fee-paid basis if commissioned to do so. Such services might comprise, for example:

- Discussing our recommendations in more detail in a meeting.
- Updating or drafting revisions to some or all of the template agreements, or providing additional templates.
- Providing training in the use of the templates or in drafting and reviewing contracts of the same type as your templates.

These services can be tailored to fit within your training budget, publications budget, or legal services budget, as you consider appropriate.

Due to resource constraints, this service is limited to 20 health-checks, so don't delay in booking your health-check. To make a booking or for further information, please contact Mark Anderson at mark@andlaw.eu, or by telephone on 01865 858 878.

Please visit our website, www.andlaw.eu, for more information about our firm, our clients and our work for them. Please visit our blog, IP Draughts (www.ipdraughts.wordpress.com) for regular updates on issues affecting intellectual property agreements.

Please note: we reserve the right to withdraw or suspend the free service, or to decline to provide the service in individual cases, at any time in light of demand and our available resources.
